

Mrs. Cheryl Ramsey is a graduate of Benedict College in Columbia, South Carolina. She was employed with the Department of Corrections and the Probation Division in the state of Georgia. For over 30 years she assisted in helping others better their lives by supporting, advising, and guiding them through the criminal justice system. Since retirement she volunteers her services throughout the community to both potential and existing victims. Her experience in the criminal justice system allows her to share her knowledge to those in need. She has been instrumental in helping young adults understand the probation and parole systems. Mrs. Ramsey is married and enjoys bowling, sewing, and traveling.
